

wednesday, december 24, 2008

● ● ● Shake n' Stack Instruments

I was so excited today when I heard the UPS truck stop at my house. My daughter came running in with a box stating that maybe it was "more clothes". Gymboree is known to be delivered daily at my house.

We tore open the box and I stared at a toy called Shake n' Stack Instruments. It looked so neat to play with! My daughter who is 6 wanted to open it but I told her it was for the baby. But that she could play with it as well! :)

We all know that music plays an important role in every child's development and provides a platform for listening, language, and creativity.

First Act acknowledges this and helps children grow. They are committed to being there from the beginning, sharing a child's first notes. Their products are designed with child development experts to help guide young children through key developmental milestones. First Act's innovative product design combined with basic music concept learning engage children and spark an early love of music.

Little First Act Discovery is available now at select retailers including Toys R Us, Target and Wal-Mart. It retails for around $12.99.

For more information on Little First Act Discovery check out their comprehensive website here:

* 'Shake n' Stack Instruments': A classic 2-in-1 stacker with hidden musical surprises. Stack and un-stack the soft rings to reveal a tambourine and maraca sized just right for baby! The maraca angles toward the baby for easy-to-reach play. Three musical instruments for baby to grab and stack.

It promotes Rhythm exploration and helps eye-hand coordination and Fine motor skills.

This toy is recommended for infants aged 6 months and up.

Posted by Iceychips at 6:59 PM

Labels: infant, play, review, toy