

PANORAMA

Greenhouse Rock

THE BAMBUSA

First Act Guitar Studio
745 Boylston St.
617-226-7899

The socially conscious rock star, devoted to ecological causes like saving the rainforests and promoting Greenpeace, is nothing new. But now, thanks to Boston-based instrument makers First Act, eco-friendly rockers finally have a guitar that helps them put their riffs where their mouths are. First Act recently introduced the Bambusa, which eschews the ever-scarcer hard wood used to make most guitars for a body and neck made from the infinitely more renewable bamboo. Even the natural finish and food-safe glue used to secure this stylish instrument is environmentally sound, making the Bambusa the obvious choice for any axeman who wants to trade the blues for the greens.