

Maroon 5's Levine Touts Lakers Guitar

Adam Levine of Maroon 5 is a huge Los Angeles Lakers fan. When he stopped by the First Act Custom Shop in Boston while on tour last fall, he and luthier Kelly Butler came up with a design for a Lakers custom guitar. First Act built and shipped him the guitar in time for the band's performance at the Staples Center in Los Angeles, home of both the Lakers and the band. He played the guitar on stage that night and invited a number of players to the show. Afterward, both he and members of the NBA team autographed the guitar and they auctioned it off for charity.
