

PULSE

■ YO GABBA GABBA! Dance Time Brobee

Now your fest can enjoy Brobee's singing and dancing anywhere. Due to the Nick Jr. show's popularity among grown-ups, Spin Master elected not to include earplugs. Available in October, $35.

■ Zillions Pink Touch Screen ATM

How's little Susie going to get her money if there's ever a rub on a bank? Summit helps you teach your children well. $70.

TOY STORY

■ Disney Pixar U-Command WALL-E

It's not animated — it's animatronic! He can even dance — in reverse! Perfect for a 6-year-old, but even better for an adult. From Thinkway Toys, $60.

Early look at hot holiday gifts

By MARINA VATAJ

STOP worrying about what your kids are going to wear for Halloween — and start worrying about what you're going to get them for Christmas.

Today — before Halloween, before Columbus Day and just four days into autumn — Toys "R" Us released its 2008 Hot Toy list.

Get your credit cards ready — if at least some of the 36 toys on the list aren't wrapped up by December, you can get Junior's plans for Harvard on the back burner.

But remember, parents: Batteries are not included! Check out our faves and see the full list at nypost.com.

■ iMod
 And you thought nothing was more annoying than kids on their Razor scooters. This motorized scooter comes equipped with speakers and an iPod docking station and has 10-plus miles of cruising capability at up to 15 mph per charge. $350.

■ EyeClops Night Vision Infrared Stealth Goggles
 Perfect for sneaky 8-year-olds and their "Silence of the Lambs"-loving parents. You can see in the dark up to 50 feet away! From JAKKS Pacific, $80.

■ Hannah Montana Malibu Beach House
 Play Along's exact (but smaller) replica of Hannah's house on the Disney Channel show kicks sand all over your Barbie DreamHouse. Available in October, $160.

■ FurReal Friends Biscuit, My Lovin' Pup
 Hasbro bills this as the most realistic interactive pet, but the plush dog won't scare your toddler. Even better, through voice recognition, Biscuit obeys commands better than a real poochie ever could. $180.

■ First Act Discovery 30-inch acoustic guitars
 Forget "Guitar Hero." Now your 7-year-olds can do something, well, exactly like it — only in wood! For your listening pleasure, First Act helpfully includes Learn-A-Chord cards. $40.

■ Classic Lights and Sounds Trike
 This retro-inspired redesign of the classic trike is a three-wheeler with pink flair, a horn and a "Ms. Flyer" license plate. In a nod to the 21st century, Radio Flyer included touch-button blinkers. $60.

■ Girl Gourmet Cupcake Maker
 Hey, boys like cupcakes, too! Just zap the batter for 30 seconds and gobble up the goodness. The JAKKS Pacific set comes with four batches of cupcakes and frosting options. $30.
